Over the DESKTOP

All roads lead back home to Indiana

The architect's sketch on the opposite page is the first glimpse of our new headquarters. Traditional in design and planned for today's business operation, it's a proud tribute to all our members who have helped to make our fraternity great.

It's also a salute to leadership and farsightedness. The choice of location in Indianapolis, Indiana, a few miles from Greencastle, the place of our founding, recognizes the historical significance of Kappa Alpha Theta's role in the advancement of women.

So let's all pull together to build together.

Only Thetas help Theta

A headquarters of our own is a national project. It will have to involve every one of us. The Building Committee headed by Marilyn Klingaman; the Steering Committee, Marjorie Schnacke, chairman; and Virginia Edwards and her Special Gifts Committee have specific responsibilities. The rest of us will be the support task force and the campaign will be successful because it is up to Thetas all the way.

The unique financing arrangement avoids today's high interest. Money given or pledged to the Foundation, earmarked for the Headquarters earns a tax exemption for the donor. Members considering this avenue of participation may make a determination based on ability to give and the tax benefit accruing to them.

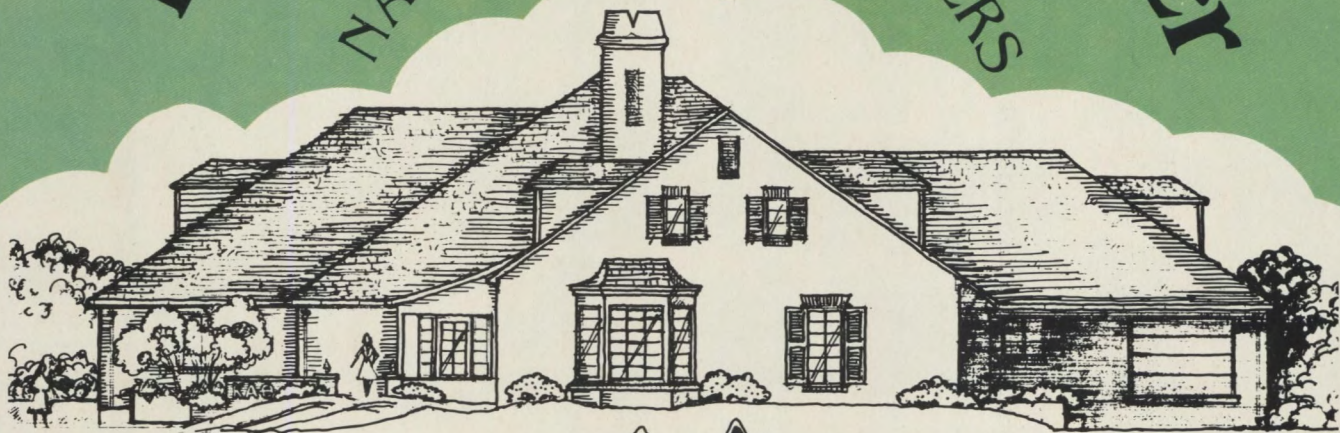

The Foundation in turn lends the donated money to the Fraternity at a rate of interest significantly below the prevailing rate. Thetas helping Theta.

A loan must be repaid and that's where the Loyally in Theta Fund comes in. This Fraternity Fund offers an option in giving. Not only does it enhance fraternity programs listed on the opposite page, but a certain percentage of the fund will be reserved for amortization of our building loan from the Foundation.

Choose the road you wish to take as we all build together.

PLUG INTO THETA SYSTEM

to beat the rush game

By Pat Schutte, Director of Membership

In this age of computers and electronic games, Kappa Alpha Theta has continued to update its rush program to meet the challenges of today. The philosophy behind our recommendation system continues to stand the test of time, but its implementation has been threatened by a decreasing number of alumnae volunteers, the increasing number of collegians going through rush and the increasing mobility of society. Our membership offers outstanding resources. The challenge has been to harness them in such a way that our rushing effectiveness and leadership continue. Alumnae and collegians should familiarize themselves with the following tried and "new" aspects of the Theta rush system—an arcade of winning strategies.

Town Chairman System

The Town Chairman System is designed to form a network of recommendation personnel across the United States and Canada with collegians and alumnae cooperating to provide coverage in every community where a Theta lives. With the goal of providing college chapters the widest selection of qualified women from which to choose their members, it offers alumnae and collegians an opportunity to share ideas of qualities and characteristics important in selecting new members.

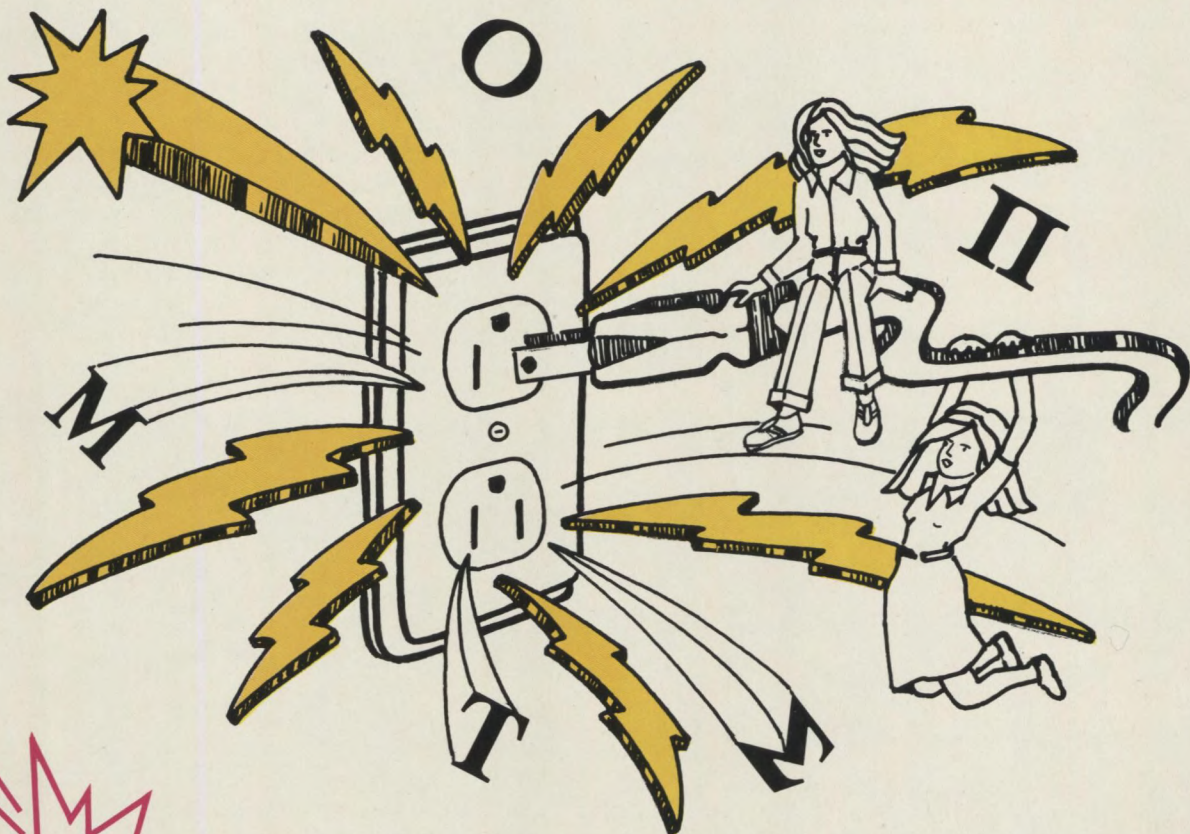

Each college rush chairman should appoint a chairman for each town represented in the chapter. Other members from the same town serve as a committee. Town chairmen are responsible for contacting alumnae Recommendation Board Chairmen, Authorized Rush Representatives or any known Theta alumnae in their home towns, offering to help in gathering information on rush prospects. The important point is to get together—collegians and alumnae. The Alumnae District President may facilitate initial communication efforts. Town chairmen and alumnae rush personnel then work together to seek recommendations for all qualified prospective rushees planning to attend college at any school where there is a Theta chapter.

PROSPECT SHEETS

The Prospect Sheet is for use by college members when organizing and submitting information on rush prospects to alumnæ recommendation personnel in order to facilitate the recommendation process. College members are aware that alumnæ have the privilege and responsibility of recommending prospective members in writing. The Prospect Sheet may be used:

1. during the pre-rush period as an aid to the Town Chairman System. It is a tool for submitting information as well as standardizing the form, forwarded to recommending alumnæ by Town Chairmen or other college members. The Prospect Sheet is an indication of initiative and interest on the part of the collegians to cooperate with alumnæ toward providing fuller recommendation coverage.
2. during rush in order to evaluate and keep track of non-recommended prospects. In turn, the information may be communicated to the alumnæ Rush Adviser when phoning requests for recommendations. Initiative on the part of college members to secure Prospect Sheet information indicates the degree of member interest in the prospect and will make RA phone calls more productive. The Prospect Sheet may also be used by the Chapter Membership Committee.

The Prospect Sheet also serves as a guide for college members in evaluating rush prospects.

STARRED LIST

The best way for a college chapter to combat any "space invaders" in the rush game is to gain a head start through use of a starred or preferred list. This is a list of the most highly qualified rush prospects which is compiled by the rush committee after thorough study of all recommendations. Its size should be approximately 2-3 times quota depending on the drawing power of the chapter, and preparation should be completed prior to the arrival of chapter members for pre-rush workshop. Only recommended prospects but not every recommended rushee will qualify. Additions or deletions may be made during the rushing period. Qualifications for being on the Starred list are based upon membership needs predetermined by the chapter at the Spring Rush Workshop. Chapters receiving too few voluntary recommendations before rush should make a list as long as possible and should compile a supplemental starred prospect list for whom the rush adviser may solicit recommendations.

A starred list enables a chapter to concentrate its rushing energies and achieve a greater level of success with top rushees. Chapter members learn about the star prospects at study sessions during the prerush workshop by using display posters, opaque projectors and informal quizzes. Its use tends to decrease the amount of last minute phoning for recommendations, and membership selection meetings tend to be shorter. It enables decisions to be based upon more than first impression.

CHAPTER MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE

The Chapter Membership Committee is a special committee which functions only in exceptional cases when 1) no alumna member can be found to recommend, 2) a rush recommendation board or authorized rush representative does not respond or does not choose to recommend for lack of information, and 3) a rush recommendation board or ARR does not choose to recommend for lack of qualification. Provision for this committee was made in 1970 to insure collegians the final decision on the members they choose for their chapter. The committee is composed of the chapter president, rush chairman, standards chairman, scholarship chairman, member-at-large (appointed by the president with approval of cabinet), rush adviser (non-voting), and advisory board chairman (non-voting). The responsibility of this committee should never be taken lightly.

Young institute residents enjoy recreational opportunities

Richard feeds a couple of hungry ducks during a stopover on the way to spend the day at Camp Logos.

Donna gives it her best try during the long jump competition.

Recreation is a part of the learning and rehabilitative process at the Institute of Logopedics. Young people learning to overcome a communications handicap also participate in extra-curricular activities. More than 80 institute students participated in the Kansas Special Olympics last summer. Everyone came back a winner. Camp Logos is a short trip from Wichita and offers the students day and overnight learning experiences in an outdoor setting.

Sororities

Much more than an active social life

By Robin A. Bell, $\Phi\Delta\Theta$ leadership training volunteer for IFC and Panhellenic at Ohio State University, and author of Instant Executives, a management training book for fraternities.

Higher education, it has been said, is "preparing people to make a living and to face life." Learning how to get along with and share with others and how to work in an organization are certainly important to the success of any person. Sorority life today exemplifies the best in living and working together.

For parents and alumnae with little contact with sorority management, it may come as a surprise to hear the sorority called a training ground for a wide variety of careers for young women.

Their social experience is still great and important, but sororities are providing numerous additional benefits today. Times have changed for young women. The educational needs of our daughters and granddaughters have broadened beyond belief. Thank goodness, they still like boys and are keeping their eyes open for that special person; at the same time, however, they have many other interests, concerns and goals for their future.

They know that more than half of all married women are employed.

They know that 80 percent of high school seniors work 16 to 20 hours a week. They know how much it costs to attend college, and they want to help pay their way with part time jobs. They know that they probably will have to supplement their husbands' income to afford the purchase of a home. And they look forward to their income-producing years.

Consequently, young women are choosing their subjects and professions wisely. When I studied engineering 50 years ago, there were no women in my classes. Even 15 years ago, the female engineering student was a rarity. Today, there are hundreds majoring in all sorts of engineering, and they are darned good at it. Bright, ambitious young women are working in the fields of business administration, data processing, computer sciences, veterinary medicine, medical sciences, industrial relations, personnel administration, welfare, accounting, marketing, merchandising, communications, business law and physical education. You name the field of endeavor, and you will find women students engaged in it and competing well with their male counterparts.

So it is natural and expected that sorority members are seeking knowledge about organization and management. They want to make the right decisions about their career choices, and they are asking for help. Their sororities are giving them help that is not available in their classes.

The need of these young women to talk to those involved in business provides a tremendous opportunity for all sorority alumnae, parents, and friends. When sorority women learn that the operation and management of their sorority is like that of a company or any business, they want to know more—lots more. They are determined, serious, and intelligent.

Fortunately, the national headquarters of most sororities have had excellent chapter operation training programs for some time. The traveling consultants or advisers do an outstanding job of reinforcing the lessons learned about sound management of money and proper use of leadership techniques.

Alumnæ provide follow-up and day-to-day contact. Alumnæ advisers have always been helpful to chapters. In the past, they used to do everything; now, they encourage the students to take more responsibility and to learn from the experience.

Parents may wonder if their young offspring are capable of running a business. Believe me, they are more than capable. I wish more of the men's groups were managed so well.

Not all members of the sorority have an interest in entrepreneurship; however, even those with marriage as a major goal want to know something about management—if for no other reason than to be able to understand the motivation of their highly ambitious husbands! What could be more important to a hard-working bread winner than an understanding wife who accepts the minor inconveniences as her husband strives to earn a promotion and get ahead of the pack?

How can the sorority experience be used to teach young women business practices? Actually, it is natural and quite interesting to compare sorority operation with that of a company. Some chapters have budget in excess of $200,000 a school year. So sororities are complex businesses. If they are not properly managed, they will eventually lose money (sometimes big money) and go out of business. They are in competition with other sororities, dormitories, rooming houses, and apartments.

They also have an unusual problem in that they change officers at least every year. This is not all bad because it gives more people the opportunity to hold office, but it does necessitate the need for a constant training program.

A new set of officers often asks, "What are we supposed to do? We have members with no desire to do anything for the organization. How can we motivate them?"

One simple and effective way is to announce to the full membership how the chapter is managed and what the responsibilities are for each member. Every member should have the following information:

Chapter treasurers learn to work with an Automated Chapter Accounting System.

- How the chapter is organized and managed.
- What the responsibilities of the officers are.
- Who owns the house and who pays for property taxes, insurance, major maintenance, mortgages, and rent.
- How the chapter budget is determined.
- How every member's bill is calculated.
- How everyone can and should seek an office.
- An explanation of the chapter operation compared to a local business.

Such matters are weighty ones, requiring strong leadership, excellent management, and fiscal responsibility. Can young women, most of whom are barely in their 20s, handle these duties? The answer is yes because their sororities are training them to do it.

College sororities are playing an ever more important role in educating their members to understand and to participate in the American free enterprise system. They are assisting and preparing young women to "make a living and face life." For this valuable lesson, they will be forever grateful to their national organization, to their alumnæ, and to their parents for making it possible.

Chapter members listen to and value the opinions of others in the full participation in chapter management.

Viva la Fiesta Bowl

Among all the major College Bowl games, only the Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, AZ has a working Women's Committee. Phoenix area Theta alumnae are playing a prominent role in that committee. Six of the 35 women who serve on the Fiesta Bowl Women's Committee are active Theta alumnae. This past year a collegian and member of Delta Epsilon chapter at Arizona State brought the number of involved Thetas to seven. Kathy King was named a Princess and became part of the Fiesta Bowl Royalty.

An important factor in the Fiesta Bowl's growth and success, members of the Fiesta Bowl Women's Committee are hostesses for all the Fiesta Bowl activities. Dressed in colorful Mexican style lace costumes of bright yellow, orange or hot pink, Women's Committee members attend all Fiesta Bowl activities such as the Fiesta Bowl Ball, Kickoff Luncheon, Ladies Day Fiesta and many more exciting events. They are also on hand wearing the gay Fiesta Bowl colors, to greet visiting teams upon their arrival at Sky Harbor Airport.

Their duties are more than social however. Throughout the year they design and construct the decorations which lend color to the Fiesta Week activities culminating on New Year's Day in the beautiful "Valley of the Sun!"

The 35 women members work hard to support all facets of the Fiesta Bowl concept. At the same time they're having a lot of fun together, representing the Fiesta Bowl family. "We are all proud to have helped make the Fiesta Bowl known throughout the nation as the most 'Hospitable Bowl' in the country," says Karen Campbell, vice-president, Phoenix Alumnae Chapter.

Fiesta Bowl Women's Committee members are Nancy Harkless Shover, Gamma, Butler; Shan Brown Francis, Beta Delta, Arizona, former president of the Phoenix

Kathy King, Arizona State Theta and 1982 Fiesta Bowl Princess.

Ay, there are some good things in life, that fall not away with the rest.

And, of all best things upon earth, I hold that a faithful friend is the best.

Priorities of Pledgeship

By Judy Alexander, Director of Scholarship

"Dear Mrs. Alexander,

"(In response to your request that we re-evaluate chapter scholarship) I think we have a problem in our pledge education program. Many of the members, especially other officers, want their social, service, intramural, etc. programs to be successful, and naturally these types of things are new and exciting to the pledges. I really think part of our pledge scholarship problem lies within the active member's frame of mind, expecting pledges to be full participants in all activities. We forget that pledges aren't used to having to do so many things at once, in addition to studying. Maybe we could help them more by involving them a little bit at a time in these activities."

This portion of a letter from a chapter scholarship chairman has so precisely pinpointed one of the causes of low scholarship among pledges that it warrants further discussion.

The transition from high school to the college academic schedule is not an easy one. The high school student spends a straight stretch of six hours in the classroom. After-school and evening activities are monitored by parental influence. This schedule does little to prepare a student for the total freedom and variety of activities that often interfere with scholastic achievement.

Since the founding of Phi Beta Kappa in 1776, all fraternities have generally included scholarship among their principles of belief. The fraternity experience is a potentially powerful group influence for the maintenance of high scholastic standards, but it is important that each chapter regularly re-examine its total program to be certain that scholarship is given rightful priority.

It is unfortunate when scholarship is lost in the shuffle of fraternity programming, especially in pledge education. Pledges are a fresh infusion of new enthusiasm. This enthusiasm is captured by committee chairmen to ensure success of a multitude of chapter activities—new members for intramural teams, bigger attendance at social functions, more hands to prepare the homecoming float, and new hands to collect money for philanthropy.

Certainly the pledge program should not be criticized for encouraging pledges to participate in the extra-curricular program. Many of these activities make important contributions to the campus and community. In addition, significant individual growth occurs in experience outside the academic life of a student. However, the chapter pledge program must be criticized if it does not give at least equal time to the importance of academic pursuits.

Scholarship will not achieve its rightful priority in pledge education just because it has an inherent claim to that place. Scholarship will achieve priority only when members recognize that an overabundance of activities in the pledge program can obstruct the achievement of satisfactory academic standards.

Many chapters are very successful in achieving an appropriate balance between the academic and social aspects of college life, and these chapters maintain excellent scholarship records.

Some chapters emphasize the need to "make grades," but often provide inadequate programming to help pledges achieve this goal. Too often these are the same chapters that overprogram other activities for pledges. If pledge scholarship is low, chapter members must recognize that an emphasis on the development of good study habits and time management techniques is necessary if pledges are encouraged to participate in all chapter social activities. It must be realized that a young woman's primary responsibility in college is to be a student.

Kappa Alpha Theta demands a minimum academic record from all members who expect to enjoy the full social privileges of membership, but Theta expects more than a minimum performance. Most women are capable of achieving more than the minimum grade requirement.

The fraternity believes that scholarship has achieved its rightful priority in chapter programming only when the scholastic goal is to help each woman discover her full academic potential and to allow her sufficient time to achieve at that level.

Letter to the editor:

I've just cleared the dining room table of rush materials—the first time in two months! Before I also clear “rush materials” from my head, I want to jot down my thoughts on doing the rush recommendation chairman's job for the San Diego Alumnæ Chapter.

It, admittedly, requires a good deal of time, but I don't know what else I could do that would be more important to me. I once read, “It is the alumnæ privilege to recommend, and the collegians' privilege to select.”

The rush system is often criticized and it does have weaknesses from both the members' and rushees' standpoint. The system has been organized and mechanized to a state at which it runs smoothly and fairly. No one has yet come up with a replacement, and when I hear the happiness and excitement in the voices of the actives, advisors, rushees and alumnæ, I forget quickly whatever criticism the system draws.

And looking back upon this recent rush, I realize that I have new friends all over the state—several states in fact—friends with whom I have worked for a successful rush. They are the other Thetas who have given their time too.

Loyally,
Sue Davidson, Eta '55

To Grand President Lissa Bradford:

Dear Lissa,

I am making a donation to Loyally in Theta Fund in gratitude to someone at Theta headquarters who did me a favor recently.

Our house was broken into and thoroughly ransacked. Only four items were taken: an expensive camera, a down ski coat, a prized necklace and my Theta pin. The burglars were apprehended on a traffic violation a week later and had in their possession the coat, necklace and pin. One of the arresting officers read the name on the back of my pin, contacted Theta headquarters to learn my married name and address, and phoned me.

If the burglar hadn't taken my pin, if the officer hadn't thought to phone Theta headquarters, and if someone there hadn't kept track of me all these years, I wouldn't be getting back the stolen items. So thank you.

Loyally in Theta,
Norma Jean Best Mills

Article in summer issue 1981 brings interesting developments.

Dear Jane,

I want to tell you how marvelous your feature was on me. I do so appreciate your running it in the summer issue. And I want you to know that such good things are coming from that.

First of all, the very first prison seminar I did after the issue came out was in the Women's Correctional Institution in Claymont, DE. Nancy Brosius, a sister Theta, and her husband attended the seminar in the prison and have become interested in prison ministry just because she read the article and was curious to meet me.

Last week I did a program for the No. Jersey Alumnæ Club on the prison ministry, and in the Spring, I have been invited to share with the New York City Alumnæ Chapter. So you see, good opportunities to tell of the prison ministry of Prison Fellowship came from your article. Many, many thanks.

Loyally in Theta,
Jane Douglass White

Dear Editor Gallup:

If referral (Autumn 1981 issue) to the Leadership Conference “at the University of Indiana” offends me, I cannot imagine how the alumnæ and actives of Beta chapter must feel. I am not a native Hoosier, but reference at any time, in print or other media to the University of Indiana simply “grates.”

Since in this same issue, I read that National will be joining, at long last, the fraternity-sorority complex at College Park in Indianapolis, you had better begin calling one of our fine state supported universities by its proper name.

Cordially,
Elizabeth J. Hicks, Gamma Eta

(editor's comment)

The Theta from the University of Massachusetts (often called U. Mass), is correct in pointing out the transposition of words which resulted in an inaccurate title of the University which is the home of one of our proudest chapters. This is a lapse which I must attempt to live down, hoping to regain the confidence of the legion of loyal Beta Thetas.

To Supervisor of State Chairmen, Eleanor Hatfield
Dear Eleanor,

It was a complete surprise to receive the darling recognition pin as a memento of my ten years as Arizona State Chairman. I had no idea such an award was given. Also I was amazed to learn that many years had rolled by since I took over the position. You can rest assured that I will wear my special wee kite with great appreciation. What little I have been able to give to the fraternity in service is only a fraction of the multitudinous rewards Theta has bestowed on me. I am most grateful.

Theta love,
Lucille Hersom
